

Part-time Job Opportunity

ISIP has started a speech research project that involves four undergraduate positions. We are looking for students who can work 15 to 20 hours per week starting ASAP. The job will last through Fall '99, with the possibility of longer term employment for outstanding workers. The payment rate is $6.50/hr. The location of the job is the ISIP Demo Room, located in Room 414 in the Simrall Engineering Building.

This job involves validating a speech database — listening to a speech file and typing what was spoken. The material consists of over 200 hours of telephone conversations collected over standard long distance telephone lines. No special computer skills are required, other than the ability to point and click.

We seek hard-working, organized and methodical individuals. A strong understanding of English grammar is necessary. Flexible hours are not an option — you will need to stick to your schedule on a weekly basis due to laboratory space constraints.

Please contact me (mantha@isip.msstate.edu) if you are interested. If you want to learn more about this project, please refer to:

<http://www.isip.msstate.edu/projects/current/switchboard>

For more information, contact:

Vishwanath Mantha
Institute for Signal and Information Processing
Email: mantha@isip.msstate.edu
Phone: (601) 325-8335
Office: Simrall, Rm. 429